The GSA Schedule provides federal agencies with a simplified process for obtaining unique solutions such as Rising Edge Technologies Data Recording systems and accessories and certifies that the prices on the GSA schedule are fair and reasonable, according to CEO Jim Beaupre of FedResults. "We strive to provide best of breed solutions and are pleased that we can offer additional contract vehicles to our clients in addition to our GSA IT 70 Schedule" stated Jim Beaupre. As the demand for federal sector business grows, FedResults expects to further expand our offerings to include other GSA categories such as Law Enforcement (Schedule 84) and other areas deemed strategic to business growth in the government.

"Continued interest in Data Recorders to support capture, playback and analysis of high-speed electronic signals from a wide array of government sectors prompted the need for a government wide contracting vehicle. In working with FedResults we were able to obtain the Schedule 58 representation in a timely and cost effective manner" according to Don Maffei, President of Rising Edge Technologies. With the advent of next generation recorders, we are now well positioned to take advantage of this growing government segment especially in the Homeland Security and Intelligence Community sectors.
